The Story of "Faust"

Faust, scientist, philosopher, after a life of meditation and research, becomes disgusted with human knowledge, and with his own inability to unravel the mysteries of nature. He summons to his aid an Evil Spirit, who appears under the form of Mephistopheles. By the supernatural power of Mephistopheles, Faust is at once restored to youth, with most of its illusions and passions, and, at the same time, is endowed with both personal beauty and splendid attire. Mephistopheles, through a vision, reveals to him the lovely village maiden, Marguerita, with whom Faust falls immediately in love. He wishes to become acquainted with her, and his desire is soon afterwards gratified. Marguerita, noted both for her loveliness and her virtue, has been left by her brother, a soldier, Valentine, under the care of Dame Martha, a good though not very vigilant personage. The maiden at first rejects the stranger's advances, but Faust, aided by the demoniacal influence of Mephistopheles (who is anxious to destroy another human soul), urges his suit with such ardour, that Marguerita's resistance is at length overcome. Marguerita's brother, Valentine, when he returns with his comrades from the wars, soon learns what has occurred; he challenges the seducer of his sister, but, through the intervention of Mephistopheles, he is slain in the encounter. Marguerita, who is horror-stricken at the calamity of which she is the cause, gives way to despair. Her reason becomes affected, and in a fit of frenzy she kills her child. She is thrown into prison for this crime. Faust, with the aid of Mephistopheles, obtains access to the cell where she is imprisoned. They both eagerly urge her to fly, but Marguerita, in whom holier feelings have gained the ascendant, spurns their proffered assistance, and places her reliance in repentance and prayer. Overcome by sorrow and remorse, and with an earnest prayer for forgiveness on her lips, the unhappy girl expires. Mephistopheles then triumphs at the catastrophe he has been able to bring about, but a chorus of celestial voices is heard, proclaiming pardon for the repentant sinner.

GOOD MUSIC

Is worthy of reproduction with full fidelity. A radio, or phonograph radio, which is in poor condition, is quite incapable of giving you its best.
We are "cranks" on tone quality, and experienced in reconditioning sets of the smallest size and the largest (such as the RCA 22-tube phonograph radio)

So sayeth a master . . . and so we would agree.
If you take pleasure in the music that is also called friendliness and harmony and accord, you're sure to find satisfaction in the EATON way. For buying or selling at EATON'S, you're almost sure to sense this happy musical under-
